Healing Ourselves

We realize now that we were excessively self-centered, chiefly concerned about our feelings, our problems, other people's reactions to us, and our own past and future.

Therefore, trying to get into communication with and help other people is a recovery measure for us, because it helps take us out of ourselves.

Trying to heal ourselves by helping others works, even when it is an insincere gesture.

Try it some time.
